

What Drives Happiness Around The World?

Happiness is ranked on a scale from 1 to 7 with 7 the happiest.
Happiness score is a function of economy, health, family, generosity, trust and freedom.

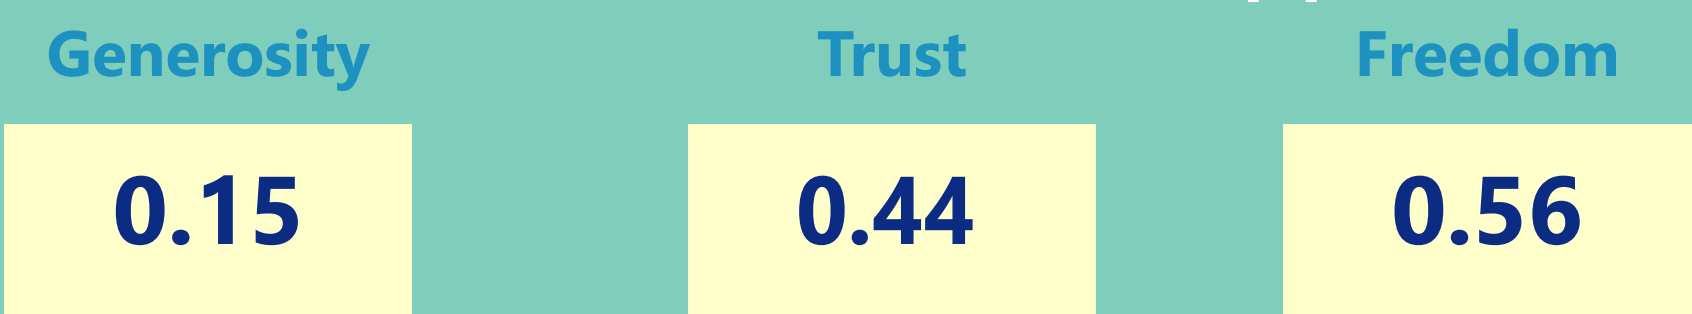

2017 World Happiness Score

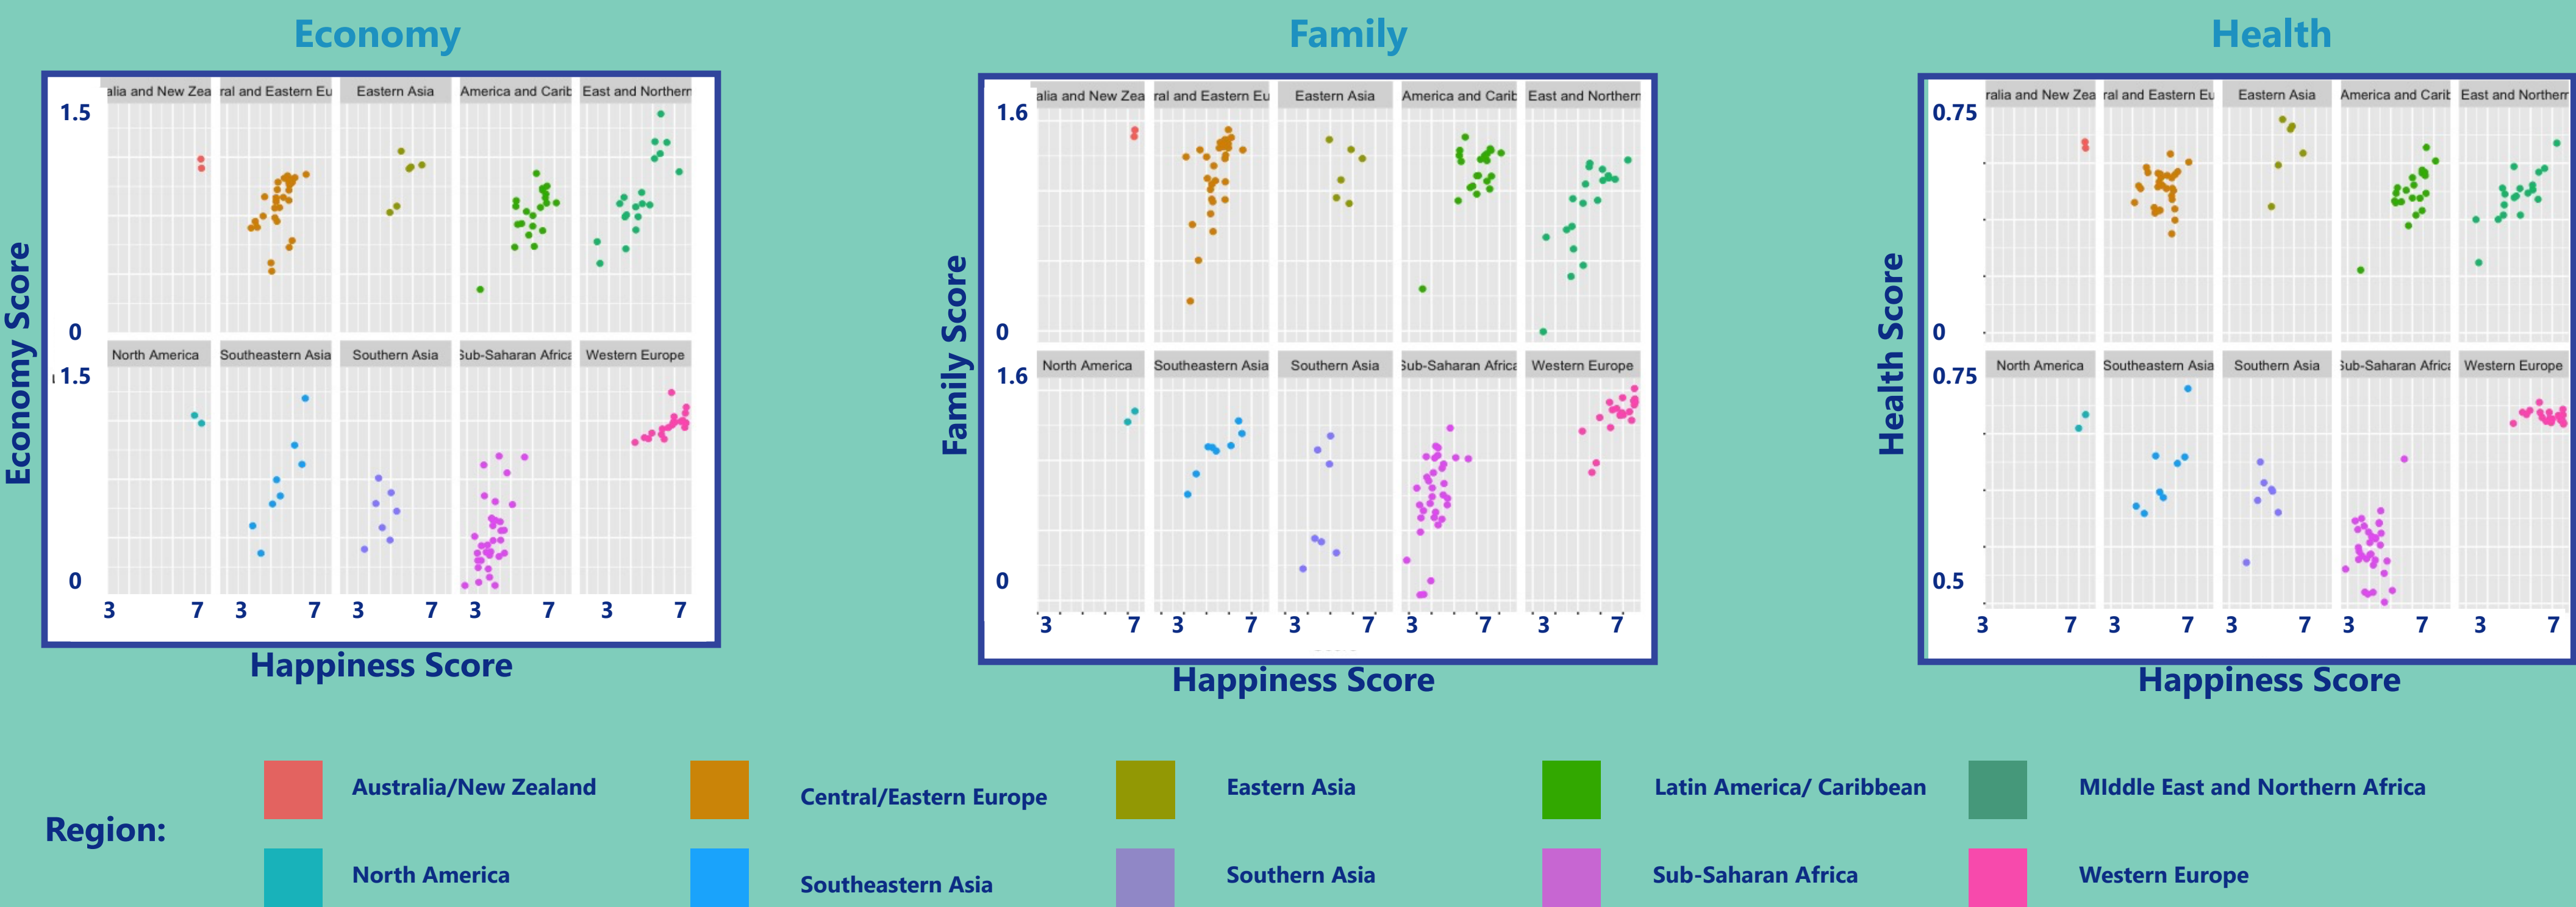

Highest Correlation with Happiness

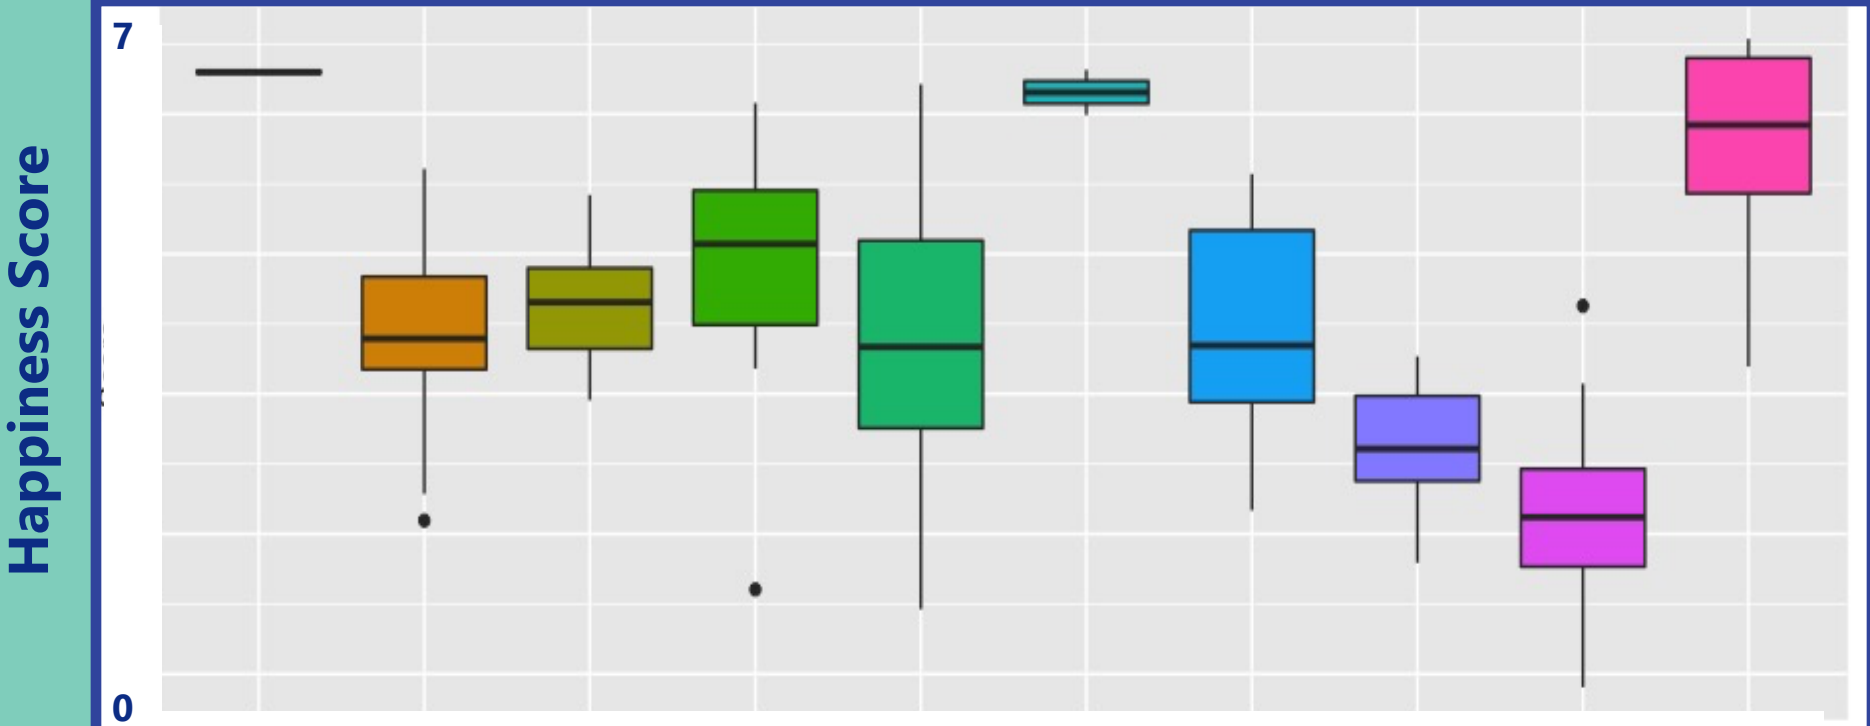

Lowest Correlation with Happiness

How are Family, Health and Economy distributed by region?

Happiness Score By Region

Motivation:

Government leaders can use happiness indicators to inform their policy-making decisions.

The Western European countries of Norway, Denmark, Iceland, and Sweden have consistently been named the top 4 happiest countries over the last three years. Canada, Australia, and New Zealand consistently score above the United States.

Data Description:

The World Happiness Report available from Kaggle consists of three .csv files from 2015-2017 and includes a happiness score for 155 countries. It also shows how much of the happiness score can be explained by six factors. GDP, Family, Life Expectancy, Freedom, Government Corruption, and Generosity.

Final Data Set:

147 rows x 35 columns

Western Europe, North America and Australia / New Zealand are the happiest regions.

Sub-Saharan Africa is the least happiest region.